

Aut inveniam viam, aut faciam.

LOUISA, LAWRENCE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, JUNE 10, 1910.

The local committee is now using long distance telephone, hoping yet to arrange to get Taylor here on the 16th. The News can not be held back for the result, but advertising matter will be sent out announcing same as soon as known.

Under the above name J. M. Turner and R. S. Chaffin, of this city, have formed a partnership for the purpose of doing various kinds of concrete work. They are at present engaged on a big job near Cord, Ky., for the C. and O. railway company.

C. L. Miller, of the committee look into the replevin bond business, reported that about $110,000 worth of replevin bonds remain unsatisfied.

News has reached Louisa of the death by drowning of Mr. Low, somewhere near Nolan. W. Va., fell from a raft and was in the water forty minutes before it was recovered. Mr. Love was the father of Miss Eunice Love, who was a pupil of the K. N. C., and who is now the wife of Mr. Goodie Combs, an alumnus of the college.

Later—Our Pikeville correspondent says the drowning was at Johns creek.

The reading of the above, taken from a recent number of the Paintsville Herald, reminds me of the News of a couple of visits made to Louisa by "Baby Bates. The first call was an involuntary one. As the Herald says, Bates cast his lot with the Confederacy, but he was more than fourteen years of Clothes; like men themselves have character

The absence of character is less than it is in man. Character in clothing is one minute's making and a lifetime's wearing. The clothes we wear today are mirrors of our minds. The Singer Manufacturing Company has called a meeting of directors on June 18 to declare a $300,000 stock dividend to its shareholders.

While plowing in a field near Decatur, Ill., Will Jones, a young farmer, was struck by lightning and his clothing burned off and his hair singed, but he will recover. The two mules he was plowing with were killed and the plow demolished.

George A. Ross, formerly cashier of the Produce Exchange Bank of Cleveland, was released from the Ohio penitentiary, having concluded a ten-year sentence, which was reduced to little more than six years, owing to good behavior. Early in 1904 Ross pleaded guilty to a defalcation aggregating $180,000.

The birthday anniversary of Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States, was celebrated throughout the South Friday. In Louisiana the day is set apart as a memorial, or Decoration day. It is a legal holiday in Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas, South Carolina and Louisiana.

Samuel Untermyer, New York lawyer, joined the counsel for the minority holders in the Kanawha and Michigan railway case, which is being argued before Common Pleas Judge Rogers at Columbus O. The railway is seeking to have set aside a temporary restraining order issued by Judge Kinkead, blocking the Chesapeake and Ohio ownership of the Kanawha and Michigan.

Frankfort, Ky., June 4.—Efforts are being made to secure a parole for Judge C. E. Booe, for Assistant Auditor, who was sent to the penitentiary for 15 years on the charge of peculating $40,000 from the state during the six years he was in the Auditor's office. The petition may be turned into the Prison Commission Monday. It is signed by all of the members of the jury and by many residents of this city and county. It is claimed in the petition that inasmuch as Judge Booe has been humiliated he has sufficiently atoned his crime.

Savannah, Ga., June 3.—Showers of small stones which fell in the business district here this afternoon caused people to think that the belated tail of the comet has struck the city.

The stone in great quantity fell in three showers with such force that those which struck on pavements were broken in small pieces and forced people to run for shelter. They ranged in size from that of the most severe thunderstorm and were carbonized on the outside as though having been subjected to great heat. The stones fell during the most severe thunderstorm and electrical display known here in the stones are being taken to Washington by Bureau and Hydrographic Office representatives. They are unlike anything ever seen in this section.

W. C. Whitton tells us that he shot a crow that was sitting on a nest and, in going to the nest in two or three days, he was surprised to see another crow sitting, and he killed it. On another day another one was killed on the same nest, and now he goes to the nest regularly every day and kills a crow. He says that he is willing to make oath that he has killed seven crows on the same nest, and as it is now mail time, we can't wait to see whether he will get one today.—Cynthia Log Cabin.

Hyden, Ky., June 4.—This town was visited by the most destructive blaze in its history last night, the main business block being reduced to ashes, entailing a loss of $15,000, with no insurance. Among the losers was H. C. Chappell, of Hyden Thousandsticks, a mountain newspaper, celebrated all over the country, who lost his printing plant and outfit.

Besides the post office, other buildings consumed were W. L. Feltner's general store, M. T. Cook's store and restaurant, C. N. Wooten's barber shop, James Morgan's general store and the residence of Dr. Cook.

The west side of the courthouse was damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars.

The fire started shortly before midnight and raged furiously. An entire block burned and the rest of the town was saved by the most desperate efforts of a bucket brigade.

It is believed that incendiaries did the work, and bloodhounds are being hurried to the scene from Lexington.

Only recently the fine buildings of the Hyden Academy, a school which had been established there after many years of effort, were burned to the ground.

OBITUARY.

Death has again been in our vicinity, and visited the home of Frank Gillam on June the first and claimed for its victim the loving companion and mother. She was well known in the community in which she lived and was loved by all who knew her. In tribulations, afflictions and death, in all these she was one of the noble.

Her sickness was long and painful with lung trouble. Few hours before death came she called her children to her bed side and bade them to love and obey their kind father and gave them all the good advice that a dying mother could. She leaves eight children to mourn her death, five girls and three boys. She was a dutiful mother a loving wife and a kind neighbor in the noblest sense, loved and respected by her many friends. Who shall measure the loss or who shall attempt to fathom the depth of sadness that lingers in that home the goodness of her life and the memory of her kindness will abide with us.

She was laid to rest under the sod in the graveyard near her home. A Friend.

Grant Daniel, former Sheriff of Johnson county, has instituted suit in the Johnson Circuit Court against Mart Brown, of Red Bush, a former deputy sheriff, and his bondsmen W. H. Dorton, W. H. Estep and C. M. Thomas. The petition alleges that Brown has not accounted for or paid over $2,700 which it is alleged is due Mr. Daniel on tax collected by Brown. Last week Brown gave bond to answer the action of the grand jury should an indictment be returned against him. It is not likely that the civil proceeding will be reached at this term of court. The grand jury has not as yet taken any action on Brown's case.—Herald.

Anti-Race Suicide Family.

Washington, May 28.—A member of an anti-race suicide mountain family, R. E. Caudill, of Morgan county, called upon Congressman J. W. Langley here this week. The Caudills are Democrats in everything but congressional elections, for in these they support Langley. As the family consists of the parents, ten boys and five girls—seventeen in all—their support is not to be sneezed at.

They are all in robust health. Though the elder Caudills have been married for forty-four years, they look no more than fifty years old each. Their five girls have married professional or business men; and of the ten brothers, three are lawyers, two are bankers and five are merchants. There are two pairs of twins among the younger Caudills.

R. E. Caudill, the Washington visitor, is one of the elder twins. He and his brother are red-haired; they married red-haired twin sisters; their courting was done together; they were married on the same day by the same parson at a double ceremony; their honeymoon was spent together, so to speak, and each couple has three children, all red-haired.

Country School Commencements.

This is an age of advertising. Everything is helped by publicity from a barbecue to a prayer meeting. One of the reasons why our country schools are not considered of more importance is due to the fact that more publicity is not given to their work. They begin as quietly as a farmer begins to plant corn and then end with no more publicity than is given to the farmer's hay harvest. There is no special reason, or occasion for visitors and the school is seldom mentioned or thought of.

This is now changing. Our people are awakening to the fact that our country schools are the most important thing in their respective communities. It is beginning to be recognized that the course of study has a beginning and an end as does the college course and in a few years the diplomas of graduation will be as highly appreciated as the college "sheep skin."

The State Superintendent of Public Instruction is very anxious that in every rural district in which one or more pupils have passed the examination and secured diplomas, that there shall be public commencement exercises held.—Louisville Evening Post.

West Virginia's Politics.

The senatorial executive committee of the Republican party, for the Sixth West Virginia senatorial district, has called a delegate convention for July 16th, for the purpose of nominating a successor to Senator H. S. White, whose term has expired.

Wayne county, according to the rule of rotundity, will get the candidate. P. H. Napier, a well known attorney and former prosecuting attorney of Wayne county, is said to be a candidate for the place. There is, however, a desire in Mingo county to have M. Z. White, of that county, made the nominee. McDowell county, with immense Republican population, controls the situation in the district, which is made up of Wayne, Mingo, McDowell and Wyoming. Wayne is the only Democratic county in the district, but has a strong and virile minority, whose leaders are always active.—Ashland Independent.

The NEWS leaves to its readers the work of figuring out what the "rule of rotundity" means.

Studying Natural Gas.

Francis Vnudsco, Dr. Hermann, a mining engineer, and Geologist Boehm of the Royal Hungarian Commission, are in this country to make a special study of natural gas and its uses. A vast quantity of natural gas has been going to waste in Hungary, and this commission was appointed for the purpose of assembling the information upon which the Government may take action for the proper utilization of the fuel. The members were in Baltimore last week, and they will visit West Virginia, before their return to their native country.

She gave him a ten-dollar bill, and told him to get one five in change—one dollar in small pieces. The merchant gave the boy a five-dollar bill, four ones, a half and two quarters. Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured com-
Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain.
It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Honest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good."

It is non-secret, non-alcoholic and has a record of forty years of cures.
Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures.
If you want a book that tells all about woman's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing only, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers.
In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Secret of Youth

Do you ever wonder how you can remain young, or why other women older than you, look younger than you do?
The secret can be put in a few words: "Preserve your health, and you will preserve your youth."
By "health" we mean not alone physical health, but nerve health, as, sometimes, a significantly strong-looking women are nervous wrecks.
But whether you are weak physically or nervously, you need a tonic, and the best tonic for you is Cardui.
It builds strength to the physical and nervous systems.
It helps put flesh on your bones and vitality into your nerves.

Take CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

My mother," writes Mrs. Z. L. Adcock, of Smith-Tenn., "is 44 years old and is passing through the change of life.

"She was irregular and bloated and suffered terribly.
My father stepped over to the store and got her a bottle of Cardui, which she took according to directions and now she is up, able to do her housework and says she feels like a new woman." Try Cardui in your own case.

Congress, Ninth District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce
W. J. FIELDS,
of Carter county, as a candidate for Congress, subject to the action of the Democratic party of the Ninth District.

I desire to announce myself as a candidate for the Democratic Nomination for Congress from the Ninth Congressional District. I was a candidate for the nomination before the convention two years ago which nominated James N. Kehoe, and following that convention, it was almost unanimously conceded that I was the logical candidate and entitled to the nomination at the hands of my party this year. I have always been a zealous party worker, and if nominated, will conduct an energetic campaign for election and if elected will devote all my time, energies and talent to the office and diligently work for the interests of the people of my district.

I respectfully solicit support for this nomination.

THEIR TROUBLES BEGAN.

lsters were engaged. we called Squire W. H. Neal, who kindly came to the court house, through the rain, in order to make the young couple happy. This he did in his usual graceful manner, and after the ceremony, the four or five men who had assembled, including Sheriff Neal, marched by and offered their congratulations and good wishes.

Mr. Spradlin is a Floyd county school teacher, and Miss McGuire was en route home from school at Valparaiso, Ind., when she was met by her lover and they decided to get married. The young couple expect to stay in Ashland and Catlettsburg for a few days, until parental forgiveness is obtained and then they will journey homeward, where the "fatted calf" will evidently be killed in their honor.

To Sunday School Workers.

The twentieth Annual Convention of the Sunday School Association will be held at Louisa on 7th and 8th of July.

Please do not delay. Begin now to select your delegates.

From the Oil Field.

The Damron Oil Company completed the drilling of a well on the John R. Chapman farm on Lick creek yesterday and the indications are that it will make a paying well. The oil was found in the Berea grit. A shot will be put in the well next week.

A well was drilled in on lower Three Mile Monday and is dry. It was the property of Smith, Dimmick, Lawrence and Leidecker and was on a lease from Northup and Wood.

Work on the Garred well was delayed for a week or more by a broken bit fastened in the hole. It was removed Tuesday and work resumed. It is reported they have a showing of oil in the Clinton sand.

GIANT BATES.

when he enlisted, and he must be at least 68 years old now. The occasion of that first visit to Louisa was when he as a prisoner of war was taken through this town en route to Camp Chase, O. He, with many others of Humphrey Marshalls command, was captured on that raid through Pound Gap. He made his grand entry into Louisa on board a little army mule, and it is said that the Baby's feet swept the ground as he rode along. His next visit was in March, 1867. He had been all over the United States and a good part of Europe and was going home to Letcher county via water to Pikeville and overland to his native county. When his boat reached this point—it must have been the Red Buck—the river was too high to admit further travel by water, and Bates left the boat and went to the hotel to await a fall of the stream. Uncle Tip Moore was then keeping hotel in the old Moore brick at the head of the grade, and there the giant remained until the boat could proceed on its journey. Of course he attracted a great deal of attention, as well he might. He was the biggest man, so the News ventures to assert, that the world ever saw. There have been men who weighed more, but they were masses of flesh without corresponding height. Bates lacked only an inch of being eight feet high in his stockinged feet, and when here on the second visit he weighed 525 pounds. He was admirably proportioned, hands and feet matched to such enormous weight and height. One day while sitting in a room with whitewashed walls at the hotel he was leaning back in his chair, with one foot encased in a heavy boot flat against the wall. A bystander saw the chance, and asking Bates to hold still a minute he took a lead pencil and marked on the wall an outline of the "Baby's" pedal extremity, and that drawing remained there many a day thereafter. When taking his infrequent strolls through Louisa Bates always wore a pair of yellow kid gloves, making his hands resemble a pair of canvassed hams.

The big fellow was in Louisa several days, and during that time he paid two or three visits to the Masonic Academy. He showed great interest in boys and girls, and they returned it many fold. The principal would often purposely stand as close to Bates as possible, and the difference between the giant's eight feet and the teacher's five feet six provoked many a laugh. Bates was a man of much refinement, quiet and gentlemanly in his deportment. He was very temperate and took care of his money and his presents, which were many and valuable. One was a gold hunting case watch, a gift of Queen Victoria. It was as big as a saucer, and Bates wore it, with a solid gold neck chain, made to correspond with the time-piece. He was fond of visiting at the home of late Judge J. M. Rice, where in addition to the genial Judge and his noble wife and the fine eatin', there was a cook, a white girl nearly six feet tall and built along corresponding lines. She could—and did—stand up straight under Bates' outstretched arm.

There are many living in Louisa now who remember Baby Bates, and the News feels sure they are all glad to know that he is still living and in good circumstances.

Seriously Hurt.

On Monday last while Robert, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Judd, of Deephole, was gathering May apple root, he fell from a ledge of rock upon a sharp piece of stone. The result was a cut behind the right ear, a couple of inches long and extending to the bone. A small piece was also clipped from the ear.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE.

A Southern Woman's Tribute to Heroes Both Blue and Gray.

It was just a bunch of white roses, but the ribbons that tied it together told its history—one was blue and the other was gray. It was to be placed on the grave of a boy who had fought for what he believed was right and the gentlewoman, who was to put it there believed that all animosity had passed by, and the blue and the gray might be firm friends. So the bunch she carried for her own boy's grave was tied up in this way and in her hand was another one tied the same; it was to be laid upon the grave of the stranger. That stranger whose name was even unknown to her, had died fighting like a brave man, and therefore deserved to be remembered and to have tribute shown to his courage. I think it a beautiful idea—this one of decorating the graves of all the soldiers, but I like it better when the custom is carried even further, and when not a grave in the cemetery is overlooked.

It seems to me a goodly and proper thing for the living to remember the dead, at least once a year, and it seems a kind and loving thing to mark this remembrance with sweet flowers. As a people, we are not very emotional, and if there is any way in which we can bring our kindness to the surface, it should be done, and to the encouragement of the day sacred to the memory of those who have gone before is worthy of much consideration. Decoration Day must essentially be one entirely free from any feeling but that of generosity and love kindness. It doesn't make any difference which side a man fought on—he died for what he believed was right, and for that reason he deserves to be remembered by those who are living. Decoration Day ought to mean the union of the gray and the blue; there ought to be a flag for that purpose for the colors blend so beautifully that the result is exactly the tint of heaven itself. I wonder, my friend if you feel as I do. I wonder if you despise all the funeral trappings—if you wish more respect shown to yourself dead than you might possibly demand alive—and when the long years have gone by, you would not like somebody once a year to place a flower on your grave, to show that you were still in touch with humanity. No matter who it is; if it is the woman whose life was soiled, if it is the man whose death was shameful, or if it was the soldier who was fighting for his country, just remember that not one of them can defend themselves now, and that neither you nor I can judge them.

Start out to make God's acre beautiful; take the crimson roses to love the white ones of innocence, the lavender heliotrope of devotion, the blue forget-me-nots of never-fading memory, the lilies of purity, and strewing them all about here, here and everywhere, make the way one of absolute union—union of love, union of feeling and union of remembrance. That is what Decoration Day should be.

And all these soldiers who lie sleeping, those who fought not only on the battle ground of dispute, but in the greater one of life, will when the trumpet call rings out in summons on the great Judgment day, each stand before the Great Commander, ready to answer the questions put to him. Johnson County Suits.

The town of Paintsville has instituted suit in the Johnson Circuit Court against Dr. Bayes, Malta Bailey and J. F. Bailey for the recovery of the cost of street paving and sewerage in front of their property. Bonds were issued some time ago but the parties above mentioned refused to pay and sought to have the matter litigated, their claim being the work was not done according to law. Dr. Bayes instituted suit against the town two years ago on the same subject but as yet nothing has been done with the cases. Nearly all property holders paid for the street improvements before bonds and Mr. and Mrs. Bailey calls for $2,000. The litigation promises to be interesting. George B. Martin, a prominent attorney of Catlettsburg, has taken the case.

NOTES OF THE FARM.

COLUMN OF INTERESTING NEWS THAT WILL BENEFIT FARMERS.

Care of Milk.

The proper care of milk requires the closest attention. As the old statesman said of liberty, eternal vigilance is the price of good milk. Unless you are willing to pay this price, it is well to let the dairy business alone.

The main reason milk requires so much attention is that it is so perishable. Without the greatest care it soon degenerates to a worthless condition. The conditions that surround it must be as nearly perfect as we can well attain.

Without great care, unfriendly bacteria gain entrance to our milk. They make their assault constantly and at every point. They drop into the milk pail with dirt from the cow's body. They enter with dust from the feed and emanations from stable and barnyard filth. They fall from untidy clothes and hands of milker.

After bacteria effect an entrance to the milk, heat causes them to multiply rapidly. Hence the milk should be cooled down as soon as possible and kept at the proper temperature. Ice or a cool spring or dairy house is necessary.

The vessels and utensils and machinery must be kept scrupulously clean. They must be steamed, or scalded, and washed and dried in the sun and aired abundantly.

The character of your vessels has much to do with results. If there are crevices or rough places, they will hold over putrefactions and bacteria from the old milk to the new to contaminate and spoil it.

The materials used for milk vessels may make a great difference in results. Galvanized iron is too rough and retains filth and bacteria on its surface. Wooden vessels absorb oil and fat and give off flavors. A good quality of tin makes the best milk vessel, but all unions must be perfectly smooth.

The proper ripening of your cream requires art and attention. The fine quality of your butter depends upon it. The temperature must be kept right for the development of the good bacteria and not the bad. Cream of the same age or ripeness must go into the churning.

So we might go on with the working of butter and the making of cheese. It all takes careful work and work with knowledge. The work must be on right lines. Wrong lines spoil everything. You must know how and then do it right.

In all this work there is no mystery and guess work. Science has explained it all clearly—at least so far as the daily practical work goes. It is not hard to learn. It only takes effort and care. Any intelligent person who has a love for nice, careful work can learn to do it successfully. Do you want it all explained in a nutshell? Then write to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and ask for Farmers' Bulletin No. 241, or "Butter Making on the Farm." It will be sent free of cost.

A hearing of the case was held in Huntington Tuesday, and Judge Doolittle refused to reopen the matter, so the sale as formerly made will stand. This will probably end one of the most important bits of litigation that have been in our courts in recent years.

It is said the identification of the body is complete, as some of the clothing she wore at the time of her disappearance is still intact. She had silver filling in her teeth and the teeth in the body found were full in this manner.

It will be remembered that during the month of January, 1908, Mrs. Martin, who had been married but a short time, was paying her brother, Marian Carter, a visit. She was accompanied by her husband. On the morning of her mysterious disappearance, according to the story of her husband, she arose early and went out of the room to assist in preparing the morning meal, and that he went again to sleep. When he arose and went down stairs she had not been seen by the family, and a search was instituted by the family and neighbors. Keyser, W. Va., June 3.—Indications point to a peach crop of about 200,000 baskets that will be shipped from Keyser alone this season. In spite of the late freeze, Mineral county may expect the largest peach crop she has ever produced. Soon Keyser will be the center of the great fruit section of the state. It is expected that $200,000 will be brought into the county for peaches alone.

A sensational incident of the present term of Cabell circuit court occurred when the divorced wife and the present wife of Charles Johnson, of Huntington pitched to each other claws, tooth and nail while court was in session, with Judge Doolittle on the bench. Fighting like wild cats they set the court room in an uproar, which was finally quelled when officers tore the infuriated feminine combatants apart.

Terrific in its force and leaving death and devastation in its path a cyclone such as has seldom been known in the history of West Virginia, swept through the northern part of Kanawha and Putnam counties Sunday night. Its path was a great crescent forty miles long and a half mile wide and the cyclone wake is swept almost as clean as the swath of a reaper.

From the headwaters of Two-Mile creek on Elk river, through the country near Sissonville, to a point near the town of Milton, reports of great damage in the wind swept territory came up to a late hour last night, and through most of the section all day Monday communication was cut off by disabled telephone and telegraph service.

Among these was Louis Miller, who lived on Two-Mile, and he had proceeded only part of the way when the fury of the storm burst, twisting trees up by roots, hurling the branches in every direction. Miller tried to find shelter under a great when it came crashing to the ground, crushing him to death in its fall.

With seemingly increasing strength the wind swept across the Elk river valley, destroying orchards, barns, residences of farmers and killing numerous cattle and other stock.

Discriminate

THERE is so much about good quality, high-class tailoring, better style and so on, in every clothes advertisement you see these days that the public could not be in the blame should it swallow all this extravagant printer's ink talk and go on with the thought that CLOTHES ARE CLOTHES and that it doesn't matter which or where you buy clothes, they all possess the same good features anyway.

However, the American people take for granted very few things. They have to be shown; they are not prone to experiment in clothes buying—it's too expensive and too personal in results.

Ask any resident of Huntington who can recollect back twenty-five or thirty years what the policy of this store was in the beginning. He will tell you it was to sell clothes of a higher quality, of better workmanship and of more distinctive style, and not to sell any low grade, cheap stuff.

To this day the rigid enforcement of this policy is maintained. Assuring our patrons the most exclusive styled garments, tailored by the best paid workmen and made from selected all wool fabrics.

NOTICE!

To Whom it may concern:—

In the past there has been a disposition on the part of some people living on Blaine Creek, to obstruct the stream by cutting and falling trees therein so that it obstructs the water course in such manner as to cause saw logs, staves, ties, etc. to drift, thereby costing timber men an unusual and unnecessary amount of time and expense in breaking the drifts caused by the timber having been cut and fallen into the creek.

The Statutes of Kentucky, section 5851, reads as follows: "Obstruction of Streams forbidden—what consists in—Penalty.—"That it shall be unlawful for any person to obstruct any stream or erect any dams below ten miles from the head of said streams in this Commonwealth, which is navigable for running of push boats, floating of saw logs, staves or ties, by erecting any dams or other obstruction, or refusing to remove same, which have heretofore been erected not in accordance with the statutes of this Commonwealth; and any person so offending shall, upon conviction, be fined not less than fifty dollars and not more than five hundred dollars for each offense."

This notice is to warn any and all persons who may intentionally or unintentionally violate this section of law by cutting and falling into Blaine creek timber as aforesaid, that they will be prosecuted.

Very Bad Cough. Pe-ru-na Stopped

DAUGHTER OF MRS. J. M. BROWN.
Mrs. J. M. Brown, Dunnegan, Mo., writes: "My little daughter, three years old, was troubled with a very bad cough which remained after an attack of catarrhal fever, which was a great deal worse at night."

"She would wake up out of her sleep and cough until I feared she could not stand it."

"Nothing that we gave her seemed to do her any good. I then concluded to send for Dr. Hartman's book entitled 'The Ills of Life,' which I promptly received."

"I at the same time commenced giving her Peruna. She has taken one bottle in all, through which she has obtained a complete cure."

"She also since her birth was troubled with indigestion, but since she has taken Peruna she can eat almost any kind of food without any bad results."

"She is now as well and happy as any little girl can be. When our friends say how well she looks, I tell them Peruna did it."

"I shall always be a friend of Peruna, as I consider it the best medicine for coughs and indigestion we have ever tried, and will recommend it to any one similarly afflicted."

MRS. LYDIA J. SPOONER, Santa Monica, Cal., writes that they are never without Peruna in the home, that they find it the finest family remedy they have ever used.

"Ask your Druggist for a Free Peruna Almanac for 1910."
